MEET YOUR CHOIR LEADER AND THE GOOD AFTERNOON CHOIR FOUNDER

Grenville founded the Good Afternoon Choirs in May 2009 with the very first Bath Good Afternoon Choir. Over the years that followed, more Good Afternoon Choirs were introduced and he conducts four himself.

Known as Bath's Mr. Music, by the Bath Chronicle, he has appeared on the BBC Children in Need TV programme with Gareth Malone and was one of the '100' judges for two consecutive years on the BBC1 ALL TOGETHER NOW popular Saturday night show. With his many choirs Grenville has raised thousands of pounds for various charities across the UK in the last 25 years. His other Choirs include THE Welcome Chorus Choir and 'The Last Choir Standing' celebrated Bath Male Choir.

Grenville is founder of the Golden-Oldies Charity and has appeared on radio and TV across the world. 'Goldies' (not a choir!) as it has become fondly known has developed to the point where it delivers weekly fun, SING&SMILE daytime sessions across England and Wales. For many of the people attending Goldies, it is their only social time of the week. Grenville has received many accolades for his work with the charity, but is anxious to make a point that it is the fabulous team of session leaders, and (most importantly) the hundreds of people who enjoy the fun singing sessions, who are taking Goldies forward.

Grenville's background includes a number of years managing newspapers as well as a period working as a freelance for the BBC in Bristol. He built up his own successful PR and Marketing company in the 80s and 90s and also a magazine company publishing golf titles. Grenville lives in the City of Bath with his partner Jacky and has three sons, Daniel, Kieron and Laurie, and six grandchildren.

Singing was always part of a Methodist home upbringing in Purton near Swindon. He used to have a tenor voice but G says that many years of choir conducting his voice is now a poor bass!
